

Wage growth vs productivity gains

At the overall economy level, real wages for resident workers grew 1.1% per annum over the past five years . . .

On average, over the last five years, sectors with higher productivity growth also saw higher wage growth for resident workers

