STI slips 0.8% amid regional sell-off after Trump’s latest tariff escalation

Across the broader market, decliners outnumber advancers 440 to 209, with total turnover at S$1.7b. BY RENALD YEO

SHARES on the Singapore bourse closed lower on Monday (Oct 13), tracking regional losses as investors digested news of US President Donald Trump’s latest tariff escalation against China.

The benchmark Straits Times Index (STI) slipped 0.8 per cent, or 37.22 points, to 4,389.84.

Property developer UOL was the STI’s top gainer, rising 2.4 per cent or S$0.19 to S$8.15. The biggest decliner was Yangzijiang Shipbuilding, which fell 3.5 per cent or S$0.12 to S$3.28.

Genting Singapore was the most actively traded STI counter by volume, with 52 million shares worth S$37.2 million changing hands. It fell 1.4 per cent or S$0.01 to S$0.715.

All three local banks ended in the red: DBS dropped 0.8 per cent or S$0.45 to S$53.40, OCBC slipped 0.7 per cent or S$0.11 to S$16.77, and UOB lost 1.1 per cent or S$0.40 to S$34.93.

Across the broader market, decliners outnumbered advancers 440 to 209, with total turnover at S$1.7 billion.

Vasu Menon, managing director for investment strategy at OCBC, said: “The latest rift between the US and China is likely to cause greater market volatility, and investors must brace themselves for a choppy ride.

“What’s more important is that the medium-term outlook remains positive, and investors should not lose sight of this.”

For those with the risk appetite and the ability to withstand volatility, sharp pullbacks can offer investment opportunities, he added.

Elsewhere in Asia, key indices also ended lower. Hong Kong’s Hang Seng Index shed 1.5 per cent or 400.84 points to 25,889.48, while the Shanghai Composite Index slipped 0.2 per cent or 7.53 points to 3,889.50.

Markets in Japan were closed for a public holiday.

US dollar cuts losses after Trump tones down tough talk on trade

THE US dollar edged up on Monday (Oct 13), as investors hoped the US would temper its latest escalation of the trade war with China after Friday's sell-off, while political developments in France and Japan undermined the euro and the yen.

The dollar index, which measures the US currency's performance against a basket of six others, was last up 0.2 per cent at 99.2, recovering from declines late last week after US President Donald Trump announced 100 per cent tariffs on China.

The broadside revived bad memories of Trump's Liberation Day rollout of sweeping tariffs in April and sparked a sell-off in stocks and cryptocurrencies on Friday.

"Certainly it's pretty nervous out there," said Tim Kelleher, head of institutional FX Sales at Commonwealth Bank in Auckland.

"If you look at the US and China stuff, it looks like Trump has done a bit of a TACO again and softened his tone," he added, referring to a trading adage that "Trump always chickens out."

After announcing the 100 per cent tariffs on Friday, Trump said on Sunday: "Don't worry about China, it will all be fine!"

"Highly respected President Xi just had a bad moment," he posted on the Truth Social network. "He doesn't want Depression for his country, and neither do I. The USA.

wants to help China, not hurt it!!!!"

US Treasury Secretary Scott Bessent said on Monday he was confident the standoff could be "de-escalated", which curbed some of the dollar's gains.

The euro was last down 0.2 per cent at US$1.1589, up from a low of US$1.1582 earlier. European markets broadly shrugged off French Prime Minister Sebastien Lecornu's announcement of a new Cabinet line-up on Sunday.

Against the yen, the dollar was up 0.57 per cent at 152.03, below an earlier high of 152.46. A public holiday in Japan made for thinner trading.

Markets meanwhile assessed the path ahead for new Liberal

Democratic Party leader Sanae Takaichi after Komeito quit Japan's ruling coalition on Friday, dealing a blow to her hopes of becoming the first female prime minister of the world's fourth-largest economy.

The offshore renminbi recovered some stability to trade at 7.1416 per dollar, having reached a weak point of 7.144 overnight, after data showed China's export growth picked up pace in September.

Even with sentiment on the up on Monday, analysts said the mood was fragile and currencies were likely prone to larger price swings.

"As we saw earlier this year neither side can tolerate such high tariffs for long and the comments from President Trump over the weekend again point towards a path for de-escalation," MUFG strategist Lee Hardman said.

"As a result, the trade threats may just contribute a more volatile FX market in the near-term and trigger some unwind of carry trades," he added.

Traders will often borrow in a low-yielding currency to invest in a higher-yielder, known as a carry trade. The Japanese yen and Swiss franc have typically been funding currencies and took a harder knock than others on Monday.

The Australian dollar, which tends to rally in a risk-on environment, rose 0.7 per cent to US$0.6517, making it the best-per-
