Blue chips close lower in Singapore; STI slides 0.2%

Across the broader market, decliners beat gainers 302 to 262, as 1.5b securities worth S$2b change hands. BY TAY PECK GEK

BRENT crude price movements continued to hold equities to ransom on Thursday (Mar 12), with Singapore blue-chip stocks declining after the oil surged above US$100 a barrel.

The Straits Times Index (STI) closed 0.2 per cent or 8.48 points lower at 4,855.33, while the iEdge Singapore Next 50 Index rose 0.6 per cent or eight points to 1,445.12.

DFI Retail Group was the worst STI performer with a 5.3 per cent or US$0.25 fall to US$4.50. Meanwhile, its holding company Jardine Matheson topped the blue-chip tally with a gain of 2.2 per cent or US$1.65, finishing at US$76.31.

The banking trio were mixed. OCB was 0.5 per cent or S$0.11 lower at S$20.75, and DBS declined 0.6 per cent or S$0.35 to S$55.37. UOB ended 0.4 per cent or S$0.15 higher at

S$36.24. Decliners beat gainers 302 to 262 across the broader market, with 1.5 billion securities worth S$2 billion transacted.

The global benchmark Brent rocketed by over 10 per cent to US$101.59 a barrel on Thursday, while West Texas Intermediate rose to near US$96, fuelled by Iraq's decision to stop operations at its oil ports after two tankers were targeted.

Iran also warned that oil prices could reach US$200 a barrel, as it continues to attack merchant ships in the Gulf.

Eli Lee, chief investment strategist at Bank of Singapore, said the private bank is downgrading Malaysia to "neutral" and the Philippines and Indonesia to "underweight", but continues to favour Hong Kong, mainland China and Singapore.

"Although about half of China's crude oil imports originate from the Gulf and pass through the Strait of Hormuz, China has accumulated one of the world's largest strategic and commercial crude reserves," he noted.

US dollar rises as volatile oil fans inflation fears

THE US dollar gained for a third consecutive day on Thursday (Mar 12), staying close to its strongest levels this year as surging energy prices stoked inflation worries, which could potentially force central banks to reassess the need for interest-rate hikes. The rapid increase in energy prices poses a threat to global growth, with economists warning that a prolonged conflict in the Middle East would further amplify the economic impact.

Unsurprisingly, the world's biggest energy importers have seen their currencies post the largest losses against the dollar since the start of the US-Israeli war on Iran. The Indian rupee and Japanese yen have lost more than 1.5 per cent each, while the euro and the Korean won have lost 2 per cent and 3 per cent, respectively.

Meanwhile, the dollar has risen by more than 1.5 per cent against a basket of major currencies and is close to its highest level since November, thanks in part to its safe-haven appeal, but also because the United States is a net energy exporter.

"The main thing that matters today is gas and oil, and the eurozone is quite exposed to these things. So you see the euro selling off across the board," Barclays strategist Leftheris Farmakis said.

The euro was down 0.1 per cent at US$1.1558, not far off its lowest since November.

Farmakis said the general rule of thumb is the euro tends to lose around 0.5 per cent for every 10 per cent increase in the oil price and loses 2.5 per cent whenever natural gas prices double.

Brent crude futures rose more than 10 per cent at one point to highs of US$101.59 per barrel, even after the International Energy Agency on Wednesday agreed to release a record 400 million barrels of oil from strategic stockpiles to combat the spike in crude prices.

European natural gas prices have risen around 70 per cent since the start of the conflict, having briefly doubled in the first few days.

The pound fell 0.2 per cent to US$1.338, a little above its lowest point of the year so far. The yen briefly depreciated past the 159-per-dollar mark and was last at 158.66, near its weakest since July 2024.

Risk appetite took a further hit after Trump's administration on Wednesday launched a new trade investigation into excess industrial capacity in 16 major trading partners, in a move aimed at rebuilding tariff pressure after the US Supreme Court struck down the centrepiece of Trump's tariff programme last month. More tremors rippled out from the world of private credit, this time from Swiss private equity company Partners Group, which the Financial Times cited on Thursday as saying default rates in the sector could double over the next few years.

The potential for another energy-price shock prompted traders to reassess their views on interest rates. The swaps market on Thursday showed that traders expect the European Central Bank to raise rates possibly as soon as June, while the US Federal Reserve could leave it until September before cutting rates, from a previous expectation for July, according to data compiled by LSEG.
