Singapore blue chips edge up 0.1% as lower oil prices ease war anxieties

The iEdge Singapore Next 50 Index rises 1.4% to 1,437.12 points. BY TAY PECK GEK

SINGAPORE blue chips edged up on Wednesday (Mar 11), with the barometer Straits Times Index (STI) finishing 3.17 points or 0.1 per cent higher at 4,863.81 points.

Meanwhile, the iEdge Singapore Next 50 Index also rose, by 20.06 points or 1.4 per cent to 1,437.12 points.

Overall, gainers beat decliners 382 to 211 as 1.5 billion securities worth $51.9 billion were transacted.

Private banking and asset management group LGT noted that global equity markets were steadier mid-week as oil prices pulled back from recent highs, easing some of the anxiety around the Iran war.

This comes as the International Energy Agency is reportedly considering the largest strategic release of oil reserves in its history to mitigate potential supply disruptions. Brent crude oil futures were hovering below US$88 per barrel and West Texas Intermediate, under US$84.

DFI Retail Group led the STI with a US$0.40 or 9.2 per cent rise to US$4.75, after DBS Equity Research maintained its "buy" recommendation with a target price of US$5.

Jardine Matheson Holdings, the holding company of DFI Retail Group, was at the bottom of the STI tally with a 4.8 per cent or US$3.74 drop to US$74.66. The group swung to a net profit of US$1.1 billion for the 2025 financial year, reversing from a net loss of US$468 million for FY2024.

Yangzijiang Shipbuilding closed at S$4.07, up S$0.02 or 0.5 per cent a day, after the China-based shipbuilder said it would buy a 10 per cent stake in Poseidon Corp. Poseidon is the parent company of Seaspan Corporation, which is the world's largest lessor of container ships.

A DBS analyst said of the purchase: "We estimate that the acquisition will accrete annualised profit of over 300 million yuan ($55.5 million) (net of interest income for cash used to fund the stake acquisition) or about 3 per cent of (the) bottom line, and lift ROE (return on equity) by about 0.8 percentage point... ## US dollar steadies on Middle East tensions

THE US dollar gained slightly on Wednesday (Mar 11) as ongoing fears of the war in the Middle East escalating kept risk appetite in check.

While any indication of a swift resolution to the US-Israel war on Iran has tempered dollar gains, conflicting signals have left traders without clear direction.

US President Donald Trump hinted on Monday that the war could end sooner than he had initially suggested, prompting a rebound in risk assets.

Iran, however, has continued to disrupt oil shipments through the Strait of Hormuz, drawing Washington's ire.

"The market doesn't believe the conflict is anywhere near being resolved. Investors are desperate to see some good news, but it seems unlikely that they are going to get it," said Chris Beauchamp, chief market analyst at IG.

The euro was flat at US$1.1607, after climbing as much as 0.3 per cent against the dollar. The yen was at 158.26 per dollar, weakening 0.1 per cent. The dollar index, which measures the US unit against six other rivals, was slightly higher at 98.95.

"The impact on global growth and inflation will hinge on the scale and duration of higher energy prices, which remains highly uncertain," Capital Economics analysts wrote.

"An extreme scenario in which the conflict persists for several months and energy infrastructure is damaged could push the global economy into stagflation, prompting rate hikes in most economies."

Oil prices recovered on Wednesday after dropping earlier in the session, as doubts emerged over whether the International Energy Agency's reported plan for a reserve release would be enough to offset a supply shock.

"Financial markets can absorb significant shocks when the strategic path forward is reasonably clear. What markets struggle with is ambiguity," wrote Khalid Azim, a director at the Atlantic Council.

As the conflict stretched into its 12th day, the US and Israel traded air strikes with Iran's military across the Middle East. Iran's government warned its state security forces were ready with "fingers on the trigger" to confront any revival of anti-government protests.

Traders are grappling with how to best price the risk.

"We expect the war to run for months, not weeks, while acknowledging the high level of uncertainty," said Kristina Clifton, senior currency strategist at Commonwealth Bank of Australia.

Fed funds futures traders are now pricing in 39.7 basis points of US interest rate cuts by year-end, indicating doubts over whether the central bank will make a second 25-basis-point cut this year.

Markets have been pricing in rate hikes from the European Central Bank over the past week, although policymakers said the central bank should take its time to reassess policy and stay on its present course for now.

Just two weeks ago, investors expected the ECB to keep rates steady all year, with a small chance of a rate cut. The central bank has kept rates unchanged since June 2025. A key focus for the market is also US inflation data for February later on Wednesday. This is expected to show core consumer prices rose 0.2 per cent during the month while headline prices were up 0.3 per cent, according to economists polled by Reuters. REUTERS
