Singapore shares rise even as exports in May fall; STI up 0.6%

Across the broader market, advancers edge out decliners 275 to 210, after 1.2b securities worth S$993.8m are traded. BY RANAMITA CHAKRABORTY

SHARES on the local bourse ended higher on Tuesday (Jun 17), even as Singapore's key exports declined 3.5 per cent year on year in May, reversing sharply from April's surge.

The benchmark Straits Times Index (STI) rose 0.6 per cent or 22.18 points to close at 3,930.64.

Across the broader market, advancers edged out decliners 275 to 210, after 1.2 billion securities worth S$993.8 million were traded. The top gainer on the STI was CapitaLand Integrated Commercial Trust (CICT), which rose 1.9 per cent or S$0.04 to S$2.17. Telco giant Singtel was the biggest decliner, slipping 0.5 per cent or S$0.02 to S$3.93.

The trio of local banks finished in positive territory. DBS rose 0.7 per cent or S$0.30 to S$44.46, UOB edged up 0.4 per cent or S$0.13 to S$34.95, and OCBC climbed 0.4 per cent or S$0.07 to S$16.09. Elsewhere in Asia, markets ended on a mixed note. Hong Kong's Hang Seng Index slipped 0.3 per cent, Malaysia's FTSE Bursa Malaysia KLCI declined 0.6 per cent, and Australia's ASX 200 edged down 0.1 per cent. In contrast, South Korea's Kospi inched up 0.1 per cent, while Japan's Nikkei 225 gained 0.6 per cent. In Singapore, data released on Tuesday showed that its latest non-oil domestic exports (NODX) print reversed from the preceding month's 12.4 per cent jump and disappointed market expectations of 7.8 per cent growth.

Exports to most major trading partners declined, with both electronics and non-electronics shipments weakening.

The data suggests some softening in earlier front-loading activity, noted UOB's global economics and markets research team in a report. The bank's associate economist Jester Koh wrote: "The sluggish NODX outturn in May did not come as a huge surprise given that there was some evidence that export activity to trading partners were slowing, such as the month-on-month contraction in South Korea's and Taiwan's imports from Singapore for the month of May."

US dollar slips and yen firms after BOJ decision

THE US dollar slipped slightly against a range of currencies on Tuesday (Jun 17) including the yen, which strengthened following the Bank of Japan's (BOJ) rate decision.

Broader risk sentiment remained fragile with the Israel-Iran conflict entering its fifth day.

The BOJ delivered little surprise to markets at the conclusion of its two-day monetary policy meeting, as it stood pat on rates and laid out a new plan to decelerate the pace of its balance sheet drawdown next year in the face of rising risks such as the Middle East conflict and US tariffs.

The yen swung between losses and gains after the decision, turning negative during governor Kazuo Ueda's press conference, but the dollar was last down around 0.1 per cent on the yen at 144.65 yen. "The BOJ still has a huge amount of (Japanese government bonds) and it's not decreasing that much. So in that case, the slowdown of the purchasing pace is probably partly because of the volatile market for JGBs and also the uncertainty over the global economy," said Tohru Sasaki, chief strategist at Fukuoka Financial Group.

Japanese Prime Minister Shigeru Ishiba and US President Donald Trump have yet to reach a trade deal.

Developments in the Middle East are keeping the mood tense, with US President Donald Trump on Tuesday saying he wanted a "real end" to the nuclear dispute with Iran, and indicating he may send senior American officials to meet with the Islamic Republic.

It follows news on Monday from the White House that Trump was leaving the Group of Seven summit in Canada a day early due to the situation in the Middle East, as the president has requested that the national security council be prepared in the situation room.

"Even though Israel and Iran are attacking each other, I'd say the market is a bit numb to this conflict, at least regarding the FX market," said Michael Pfister, FX analyst at Commerzbank, highlighting that moves last Friday were not that severe, even though the news would usually warrant a huge risk off move to safe havens.

"A lot of people ask whether this is an argument for the continued USD safe haven status, but against other currencies like the Canadian dollar and Norwegian krone, which usually suffer in these risk off environments, the dollar was not able to benefit," he said.

It is more the price of oil that is behind the dollar moves, he said. The escalations have sent the price of Brent crude higher.

Elsewhere, the euro was marginally firmer at US$1.1569.

The pound was last down 0.1 per cent against the dollar at US$1.35640.

Trump signed an agreement on Monday formally lowering some tariffs on imports from Britain as the countries continue working towards a formal trade deal.

The risk-sensitive Australian dollar was up 0.22 per cent at US$0.6539. Meanwhile, against a basket of currencies, the dollar was off 0.1 per cent at 98.124.

The Federal Reserve's policy decision on Wednesday is taking centre stage for FX market watchers. Expectations are for the central bank to keep rates on hold, though the focus will be on any guidance regarding the rate outlook. REUTERS
