Singapore blue-chips tank following sharp spike in oil prices; STI down 1.9%

Only counter on the benchmark index that advanced is Wilmar International. BY TAY PECK GEK

SINGAPORE blue-chips were weighed down – amid heavy trading – by a sharp spike in oil prices on Monday (Mar 9) as the fuel surged past US$100 a barrel.

The blue-chip barometer Straits Times Index (STI) slid 91.64 points or 1.9 per cent to 4,756.61 points, after having pared some losses in the afternoon trading session.

All but one constituent of the 30-stock STI were down.

The counter bucking the decline was palm oil producer Wilmar International, which rose S$0.04 or 1.1 per cent to S$3.53.

The rest of the stocks recorded losses of between 0.4 per cent (Sembcorp Industries at S$5.70) and 4.8 per cent (Hongkong Land at US$7.98).

The iEdge Singapore Next 50 Index, meanwhile, finished 4.76 points or 0.3 per cent up at 1,455.73 points – even though only two out of the 50 stocks ended higher.

Riverstone Holdings closed S$0.01 or 1.4 per cent up at S$0.74, making it the best performer on the iEdge Singapore Next 50 Index.

China Aviation Oil advanced S$0.01 or 0.5 per cent to S$1.84 – being the other stock on the index that was spared the rout. Securities broker UOB Kay Hian led the losses with a 6.8 per cent or S$0.22 decline to S$3.01.

Decliners beat gainers 532 to 193 across the broader market, with more than 2.4 billion of securities valued at S$3 billion in total transacted.

The rout in Singapore and other stock markets in Asia came as rocketing crude oil prices fuelled by output cuts stoked inflation fears.

Brent spiked over 20 per cent to more than US$100 a barrel on Monday, and West Texas Intermediate jumped nearly as much, as Kuwait and the United Arab Emirates started reducing output.

The closure of the Strait of Hormuz, a chokepoint that normally handles 20 per cent of the world's oil, and attacks on energy infrastructure in the region have sent prices of crude sharply higher.

The VIX index, often known as the "fear gauge", surged past 30. The last time it was higher was in the aftermath of the US tariff announcements in April 2025.

US dollar surges; euro, sterling tumble

THE US dollar jumped on Monday (Mar 9) as soaring oil prices sent investors scrambling for cash on worries that a protracted Middle East war could severely disrupt energy supplies and hurt global growth.

The euro and sterling were left trading 0.7 per cent and 0.8 per cent lower against the dollar, respectively. The Aussie fell around 0.6 per cent.

"The dollar is finding no shortage of support from traditional haven considerations and obviously, the US' net energy exporter status in sharp contrast to most of Europe," said Ray Attrill, head of FX strategy at National Australia Bank.

Stocks, bonds and precious metals slid on Monday as investors, spooked by the impact of surging oil prices on global inflation and economic growth, turned risk-averse and cashed in on some of their most profitable trades.

"The longer this goes on, the more exponential the damage becomes in a domino effect," said Michael Every, senior global strategist at Rabobank.

"If we are still in the same position this time next week, things could be quite terrifying."

The dollar pared some gains in the Asian afternoon on a Financial Times report that the G7 finance ministers will discuss on Monday a joint release of oil from emergency reserves coordinated by the International Energy Agency.

The report sent oil prices retreating slightly after they earlier spiked to just shy of US$120 per barrel.

The euro was down 0.72 per cent at US$1.1534, having slid to a 3½ month low earlier in the session, while sterling dropped 0.79 per cent to US$1.3319.

The Australian dollar pared earlier losses to trade 0.56 per cent lower. Analysts have said Asia could bear the brunt of the energy price shock, due to the region's heavy reliance on oil and gas from the Middle East. Britain and the eurozone are also heavily exposed.

The dollar was a whisker away from the 159 yen level in Asia, rising 0.48 per cent to 158.59.

"The real question is how high and how long prices stay elevated, because that's what will ultimately determine the economic fallout," said Deepali Bhargava, regional head of research for Asia-Pacific at ING. "A prolonged conflict, coupled with continued currency weakness, would feed more directly into inflation pressures across the region."

Iran on Monday named Mojtaba Khamenei to succeed his father as supreme leader, signalling that hardliners remain firmly in charge in Tehran a week into the war.

The conflict has already led to the suspension of around one fifth of global crude and natural gas supplies, as Teheran targets ships in the vital Strait of Hormuz between its shores and Oman, and attacks energy infrastructure across the region. Qatar's energy minister told the Financial Times on Friday he expects all Gulf energy producers to shut down exports within weeks, a move he said could drive oil to US$150 a barrel.

Surprisingly weak US jobs data on Friday briefly stalled dollar gains and raised expectations for US rate cuts, but that faded by Monday. Traders were last betting on around 35 basis points worth of Federal Reserve easing by the end of the year, having priced in more than 55 basis points in late February.

"Ultimately, the dynamic will likely delay any move from the Fed because policymakers will want time to review the impacts of any oil shock and how it influences the data," said Kyle Rodda, senior financial market analyst at Capital.com. REUTERS
