Singapore shares continue to rally, tracking regional indices; STI up 2.1%

Across the broader market, advancers outnumber decliners 331 to 187, with 1.2b shares worth $51.4b changing hands. BY BENJAMIN CHER

THE Straits Times Index (STI) continued to rally, tracking regional indices on Tuesday (Apr 15).

The STI closed up 2.1 per cent or 75.81 points at 3,624.72.

Across the broader market, advancers outnumbered decliners 331 to 187, with 1.2 billion shares worth $51.4 billion having changed hands.

The trio of local banks continued their ascent, with DBS up 3 per cent or $1.15 at $39.96. OCB rose 2.6 per cent or $0.39 to $15.57, and UOB increased 3 per cent or $0.99 to $33.91.

The top gainer was Frasers Logistics and Commercial Trust (FLCT), closing up 6.1 per cent or $0.05 at $0.87. The biggest loser was Wilmar, shedding 1.9 per cent or $0.06 to close at $3.09.

Across the region, major indices closed higher, with the Kospi adding 0.9 per cent and the Nikkei 225 rising 0.8 per cent. Hong Kong's Hang Seng Index closed 0.2 per cent higher, and the KLCI gained 0.4 per cent.

A rally in big tech is being fuelled by US President Donald Trump's softer stance on electronic imports from China, noted Jose Torres, senior economist at Interactive Brokers. Animal spirits have been bolstered by the White House's empathetic tilt, with investors buying not just tech, but also treasuries and commodities.

The softening in the trade rhetoric is being seen as a bullish sign that the Trump administration is becoming attentive to capital market developments, said Torres. The optimistic start to the week is fuelled by hopes of tactful negotiations by the White House.

"Even though volatility has been declining heavily, it remains well above historical averages, signalling the expectation of ongoing turbulence in stocks and rates alike," said Torres.

The Kospi added 0.9%, the Nikkei 225 rose 0.8 cent, and the Hang Seng Index closed 0.2% higher.

US dollar wins reprieve from selling; euro weakens

THE greenback held steady on Tuesday (Apr 15), trading near a three-year low against the euro and a six-month trough against the yen, as investors trying to make sense of the constant changes to President Donald Trump's tariffs remained wary of US assets.

Much of the volatility that hit the US dollar last week and sent Treasury yields soaring appeared to have abated somewhat on Tuesday, although investor sentiment was still fragile.

The euro, which has been one of the biggest beneficiaries of this month's dumping of US assets, was a touch weaker on the day at US$1.1343, narrowly below last week's three-year high at US$1.1474.

The greenback weakened by 0.2 per cent against the yen to 142.855, not far off Friday's six-month low of 142.05.

After slumping to a 10-year low against the Swiss franc last week, the US dollar was flat at 0.8144 francs on Tuesday. Still, it is down nearly 8 per cent against the Swiss franc this month, set for its biggest monthly drop since December 2008.

Market focus has been on the ever-shifting tariff headlines, with the US removing smartphones and other electronics from its duties on China over the weekend providing some relief, although comments from Trump suggested the reprieve is likely to be short term.

Trump's imposition and then abrupt postponement of most tariffs on goods imported to the US has sown confusion, adding to the uncertainty for investors and policymakers around the world.

There was a greater sense of calm across the market on Tuesday. But given the uncertainty Trump and his vacillation over tariffs have stirred up, analysts expected the reprieve for the US dollar to be shortlived.

"With every U-turn in his 'deal-making', the US president destroys further planning security and even more trust, which is why I ultimately do not expect any significant recovery in the dollar as long as this uncertainty persists," Commerzbank strategist Antje Praefcke wrote in a note.

"Last week was all about deleveraging, liquidation and asset re-allocation out of US assets. This week's tone is calmer in what is a holiday shortened week," said Prashant Newnaha, senior Asia-Pacific rates strategist at TD Securities. "Helping to set the tone were dovish comments from Fed officials suggesting they are looking beyond inflation."

Fed governor Christopher Waller said on Monday the Trump administration's tariff policies are a major shock to the US economy that could lead the Federal Reserve to cut interest rates to head off a recession even if inflation remains high.

The US dollar index, which measures the US currency against six others, was at 99.74, not far from last week's three-year low. The index has fallen by more than 4 per cent in April, set for its biggest monthly drop since November 2022.

The more risk-linked currencies enjoyed a bout of strength. Sterling was up 0.3 per cent at US$1.323, while the Australian dollar rose 0.4 per cent to US$0.6355 and the New Zealand dollar gained 0.8 per cent to reach US$0.592, near its highest in four-and-a-half months. REUTERS
