

Smaller income inequality

Gini coefficient fell to the lowest in a decade in 2016

Based on household income from work per household member
(Including employer CPF contributions)

Based on household income from work per household member (Including employer CPF contributions), after accounting for government transfers and taxes