

Singapore's 'living inheritance'

The Future of Retirement Choices for later life

The responses of working age people and retirees in Singapore, taken from a global survey of 16,000 people in 15 countries and territories

Two thirds of working age people expect to leave an inheritance to their children

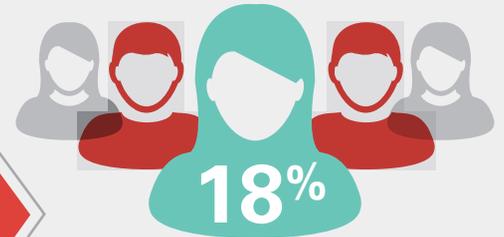

SINGAPORE

GLOBAL AVERAGE

...but less than one in five have ever received one

Yet, many retirees are concerned about their ability to support family and friends

While a similar number are worried about being reliant on them

Instead, almost three in five retirees are providing financial support...

Still, this living inheritance is impacting on retirement dreams.

of retirees have been unable to achieve at least one of their hopes and dreams since retiring

GLOBAL AVERAGE