

Carbon overview

Where energy-related emissions in key sectors come from, and the relative difficulty in decarbonising them

Less difficult or More difficult is a technical assessment

* Direct emissions: Energy-related emissions that occur at the point of use, such as when someone uses heating oil to heat the building

 Indirect emissions: Emissions that occur as a result of an activity in a place, but are generated by another entity, for instance, electricity that is generated in a power plant