Singapore shares rise amid Trump's latest tariff salvo; STI up 0.5%

The iEdge Singapore Next 50 Index remains almost flat at 1,520.5 BY BENICIA TAN

SINGAPORE stocks ended higher on Monday (Feb 23) as investors processed the news of US President Donald Trump's latest global tariffs announced over the weekend.

The benchmark Straits Times Index (STI) gained 0.5 per cent or 23.73 points to finish at 5,041.33. Meanwhile, the iEdge Singapore Next 50 Index remained almost flat at 1,520.5.

Key regional indices were mostly up. Hong Kong's Hang Seng Index gained 2.5 per cent, South Korea's Kospi was up 0.7 per cent and the FTSE Bursa Malaysia KLCI advanced 0.3 per cent.

This is the first trading day in Asia since Trump raised global tariffs to 15 per cent on Sunday, after setting their rate at 10 per cent a day prior. This followed the US Supreme Court's decision to strike down his sweeping reciprocal tariffs announced on so-called Liberation Day last year in April.

Neil Wilson, UK investor strategist at Saxo Markets, noted that "the last couple of days has amplified uncertainty, which is weighing on risk".

"But overall, it seems unlikely that tariffs are going to get materially worse for companies and consumers than before the (Supreme Court) ruling, which should mean patience will pay off."

Meanwhile, the Monetary Authority of Singapore and the Ministry of Trade and Industry said on Monday that Singapore's core inflation eased to 1 per cent in January from 1.2 per cent in December, defying economists' expectations for core inflation to rise to 1.5 per cent, based on a Bloomberg poll.

Across the broader market in the Republic, gainers beat losers 335 to 243 on Monday, after 1.7 billion securities worth S$1.7 billion changed

US dollar flat after court strikes down Trump's tariffs

THE US dollar was flat on Monday (Feb 23) after the US Supreme Court's decision to strike down President Donald Trump's tariffs added to uncertainty in markets that were already unsettled by the possibility of a conflict with Iran.

The dollar was steady against the euro at US$1.1782, while sterling rose 0.1 per cent to US$1.3485. The dollar was also 0.1 per cent lower against the Japanese yen, at 154.84.

"These initial moves appear to be knee-jerk reactions to headlines rather than true signals of fundamental change in the global economic landscape," said Invesco's chief global market strategist Brian Levitt.

"The markets' initial reaction to the ruling may ultimately be short-lived, given that multiple avenues can be pursued to keep tariffs in place."

The Supreme Court ruled on Friday that Trump had exceeded his authority, prompting him to lash out at the court and announce a blanket 15 per cent levy on imports.

He also insisted that higher-tariff deals with trade partners should stay.

The uncertainty complicates an already unsettled backdrop for forex markets, as traders deal with shifting interest rate expectations and geopolitical concerns.

Trump's replacement levies will run for 150 days.

At the same time, it is unclear whether the US owes importers refunds on duties already paid. The Supreme Court did not rule on that issue.

Analysts expect years of litigation and confusion. In the immediate term, that could paralyse markets as Trump seeks other means to replace the global tariffs more permanently.

The European Commission demanded on Sunday that the US stick to a deal reached last year with the EU that includes zero tariffs on some products such as aircraft and spare parts.

US trading partners in Asia and elsewhere are assessing the uncertainties.

The risk of a military conflict between the US and Iran has added to nervousness on financial markets.

While the longtime adversaries are scheduled to hold a third round of talks on Thursday on their nuclear dispute, Trump has ordered a buildup of forces in the Middle East.

"Escalating tensions in the Middle East have revived questions about geopolitical hedges and the FX impacts of a commodity price shock," Goldman Sachs analysts wrote.

Iran is among the world's biggest oil producers, and any strikes on it are likely to upset the crude markets.

A conflict could disrupt shipping routes as Teheran has previously threatened to shut the Straits of Hormuz, which carries a fifth of global oil flows.

Goldman analysts said the Swiss franc was their preferred inflation hedge.

The franc has strengthened by nearly 2 per cent against the dollar this year and last traded at 0.7765 franc per dollar. REUTERS
