Singapore shares rise amid Wall Street's overnight gain; STI up 0.2%

Across the broader market, decliners trail advancers 195 to 263, after 1b securities worth S$1b change hands. BY TAY PECK GEK

SINGAPORE shares rose on Tuesday (May 20), after Wall Street closed higher overnight, shrugging off Moody's downgrading of the United States' sovereign credit rating.

With only one-third of Singapore's blue-chip barometer Straits Times Index (STI) finishing up, the benchmark index managed to eke out a gain of 0.2 per cent or 6.3 points to settle at 3,882.5 points.

The better showing came as US markets closed higher. This was despite America being stripped of its top credit rating and China cutting interest rates to historic lows on Tuesday.

But JPMorgan Chase chief executive officer Jamie Dimon warned the market against complacency in the face of a slew of inflation and credit risks.

"People feel pretty good because you haven't seen an effect of tariffs," Dimon said.

"The market came down 10 per cent, it's back up 10 per cent; I think that's an extraordinary amount of complacency."

Across the broader market in Singapore, decliners trailed gainers 195 to 263, after one billion securities were transacted at S$1 billion in value.

Food Empire closed at a 52-week-high of S$1.77, up S$0.07 or 4.1 per cent. The food and beverage company generated a 16.3 per cent rise in revenue to US$136.6 million for the first quarter of FY2025 ended March, driven by robust sales in Vietnam.

Singapore Post slid 0.9 per cent or S$0.005 to S$0.565.

This comes a day after the national postal service provider announced it ramped up partnership with global transport company FedEx, allowing FedEx's parcel drop-off services at all of its post offices islandwide.

US dollar weakens again; pound, euro flat

THE greenback slipped again on Tuesday (May 20) after declining for a week, weighed down by the Federal Reserve's caution over the economy, while traders considered news that upcoming US-Japan talks could include discussions on FX and avoiding volatility.

The US dollar sold off broadly on Monday following last week's downgrade of the US sovereign rating by Moody's on deficit concerns. Now, attention turns to a critical vote in Washington over US President Donald Trump's sweeping tax cuts.

"We've got a bit of a hangover from the Moody's story and what it means for the (US) dollar in general. We still think there is risk premium embedded in the dollar," said Chris Turner, head of FX strategy at ING.

The US currency was softer against the yen, last down 0.2 per cent at 144.510, having hit a fresh 12-day low earlier in the session.

On traders' radar is news around upcoming US-Japan talks, with Japanese Finance Minister Katsunobu Kato saying he expects any bilateral meeting with US Treasury Secretary Scott Bessent on exchange rates to be based on their shared view that excessive currency volatility was undesirable.

Kato and Bessent are expected to hold a bilateral meeting on the sidelines of a G7 finance leaders' gathering to be held this week in Canada.

"Overhanging the FX market is that discussions in trade deals are going to include some currency component, which if it does is a (US) dollar negative, because the US wants a weaker (US) dollar against Asian currencies to narrow the Asian trade surplus with the States," said ING's Turner.

Elsewhere, the Australian dollar edged lower after the Reserve Bank of Australia (RBA) cut benchmark interest rates by 25 basis points and left the door open to further easing in the months ahead. It was last down 0.68 per cent to US$0.64135, trimming a 0.8 per cent gain on Monday.

The Chinese yuan weakened against the greenback as China cut key benchmark lending rates. PHOTO: REUTERS

"Ultimately, the RBA's statement does not indicate that it is considering pausing or ending the interest rate cycle. This is why the AUD took a slight hit this morning," Antje Praefcke, FX Analyst at Commerzbank, wrote in a note.

Meanwhile, the Chinese yuan weakened against the greenback as China cut key benchmark lending rates, while corporate seasonal demand for US dollars remained high.

But traders remain focused on the US, with Atlanta Federal Reserve president Raphael Bostic noting the US central bank may only be able to cut interest rates by a quarter point over the rest of the year, given concerns about rising inflation stoked by higher tariffs.

The US dollar index has tumbled as much as 10.6 per cent from its January highs, one of the sharpest retreats for a three-month period.

The greenback got a breather after Trump paused many of the largest tariffs he announced last month. But comments from Japan's top trade envoy on Tuesday that Tokyo was firm in its anti-tariff stance pointed to no easy off-ramp in the negotiations.

In the wake of Trump's tariff turmoil, Britain agreed to the most significant reset of defence and trade ties with the European Union since Brexit

The pound was flat at 1.3362 having risen 0.6 per cent on Monday. The euro was also flat at US$1.12455, and the Swiss franc strengthened, pushing the greenback down 0.1 per cent to 0.8336 francs. REUTERS
