Wall Street banks set for banner year as Anthropic, SpaceX IPOs generate US$1b in fees

WALL Street banks are on track for one of their most lucrative years in the IPO business, with blockbuster listings by Anthropic and SpaceX generating more than US$1 billion in underwriting fees alone.

A syndicate of 22 banks is set to collect about US$550 million for underwriting Anthropic's US$81.3 billion IPO, eclipsing the roughly US$500 million they earned on SpaceX's record-setting offering in June, according to Anthropic's final offering prospectus published on Thursday (Nov 19).

The fees represent a relatively small share of the US$81 billion Anthropic raised at its debut, or as much as US$93.5 billion with overallotment options exercised. The banks will receive about 0.68 per cent of the money raised in Anthropic's IPO, broadly in line with the roughly 0.67 per cent they collected on SpaceX's offering.

Underwriting fees on IPOs typically run as high as 7 per cent of proceeds, though the percentage drops sharply for bigger deals, with companies raising tens of billions of dollars able to negotiate significantly lower rates than smaller issuers.

Anthropic's fee arrangements also highlight the bargaining power that blockbuster issuers hold over Wall Street.

Some banks working on the deal did not learn how much they would earn until Wednesday night, according to a person close to the transaction – suggesting an unusual degree of uncertainty until the final stages of the offering, even as banks compete fiercely over the most coveted deals.

Anthropic did not respond to a request for comment.

While it is common for IPO fees to be finalised when an offering closes, it is unusual for a company not to communicate in advance an approximate percentage of the offering that underwriters can expect to receive, the person said.

Other high-profile issuers have kept banks in the dark until the final stages of an offering, using intense competition among underwriters for roles on prized deals.

SoftBank-owned chip designer Arm did not provide banks with a clear fee arrangement when it hired 28 underwriters for its US$5 billion IPO in 2023, Reuters reported at the time. SoftBank waited until days before pricing to spell out the fee structure, giving it a better sense of how the banks had performed during the marketing process, according to a person familiar with the information.

Banks are willing to accept relatively low fees on mega-IPOs because of the prestige of working on landmark listings, the boost to their league-table rankings and the potential for additional business, including stock trading, lending and wealth management services.

Anthropic is paying US$536.7 million of the underwriting fees, with the remaining US$13.3 million paid by its seven co-founders, who sold shares in the offering, the prospectus showed.

Goldman Sachs and Morgan Stanley, which jointly led both the Anthropic and SpaceX IPOs, are set to take home the largest share of the fee pool, receiving roughly 20.5 per cent each, or 41 per cent combined, amounting to more than US$110 million each. The remaining fees will be split among the other banks involved in preparing the AI company's public debut.

Banks have already had a lucrative year from public offerings. Global IPOs raised more than US$357 billion this year, according to Dealogic, up from US$186 billion in 2025, with SpaceX and Anthropic alone accounting for about half of that.

That marks the second-biggest year for IPOs according to Dealogic data going back to 1995, behind 2021's haul of US$609 billion.

Revenue from US IPOs for banks is also at its highest in five years, Dealogic data shows. Morgan Stanley, Goldman Sachs and JPMorgan lead the rankings and have each earned more than US$330 million so far this year excluding Anthropic's IPO, up from about US$260 million apiece in 2025.

That is still far below 2021, when the three banks earned more than US$1 billion in fees each and total US IPO revenue for US banks hit almost US$10 billion, according to Dealogic.

The 2021 total was pushed up by a pandemic-era boom fuelled by near-zero interest rates, stimulus-driven retail trading and a wave of listings of blank-check companies.

US dollar weaker as Fed-fuelled rally stalls

THE US dollar eased across the board on Friday (Nov 20) as a weeks-long rally fuelled by bets on a hawkish Federal Reserve lost momentum, but waning appetite for riskier currencies kept the dollar's losses in check.

The dollar index fell 0.1 per cent to 103.86, just short of the 103.9 level it touched in the previous session, its highest since April 2025. The index was on track to snap an eight-session winning streak and is up 1.9 per cent so far this month.

The dollar's rally accelerated on Nov 10, when hotter-than-expected US inflation data reinforced bets that the Fed would tighten policy and Fed Governor Christopher Waller said a 50-basis-point hike in December should be considered.

"I think the momentum has stalled for the dollar... but I think it's a little bit early to pick a top for the dollar," said Marc Chandler, chief market strategist at Bannockburn Capital Markets.

US Treasury yields dropped on Friday as a multitude of AI-related concerns weighed on global stocks and Anthropic's record market debut on Thursday did little to revive investor confidence. On Friday, investors sought out safe-haven assets. Lower Treasury yields also boosted the relative appeal of the Swiss franc. The dollar slipped 0.5 per cent against the franc.

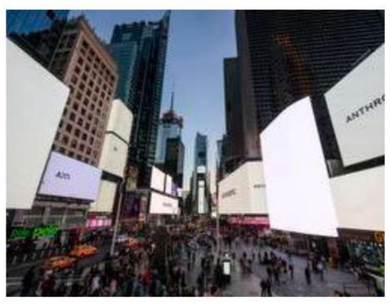

"When US rates are falling, low-yielding currencies look better," Chandler said.

Still, strategists see the dollar continuing to draw some support from the outlook for a hawkish Fed.

Chris Turner, global head of markets at ING, said that while there is only a weak case for another steep correction in equities, "there is no reason for the Fed to drop its hawkish rhetoric anytime soon."

He pointed to the release next week of the Personal Consumption Expenditures Price Index, a key inflation gauge for the Fed, which Turner said will likely confirm that the US central bank needs to act.

Federal Reserve Governor Lisa Cook on Friday made a case for more interest rate hikes, saying the US central bank's current policy rate is not high enough to deal with inflation levels she views with "great concern."

US President Donald Trump said during a news conference on Friday that interest rates were too high because the Federal Reserve is "political."

Against the yen, the dollar slipped 0.6 per cent to 158.78, still close to levels at which Japanese authorities intervened in July to shore up the drooping currency.

"The yen has jumped today, helped by lower US rates and firm Japanese October CPI," Chandler said.

Japan's annual core inflation accelerated to 2.2 per cent in October, staying above the central bank's 2 per cent target for a second straight month and pointing to broadening price pressures that strengthen the case for a near-term rate hike by the Bank of Japan.

Analysts at Capital Economics argue that the yen's recent weakness is unlikely to last. With long-term inflation expectations now around target, further increases in yields would be mostly in real terms, which, combined with their view that US yields will fall, should prove yen-positive, the analysts said. Sterling was little changed on the day but hovered near a one-year low against the dollar, at US$1.3091.

Bitcoin, the world's largest cryptocurrency, fell below the US$60,000 level on Friday for the first time since July, as lofty valuation concerns weighed on the AI trade and other risk assets. It was last down 6 per cent at US$57,939. REUTERS

INSIDE INSIGHTS

Share buybacks surge as 35 companies repurchase shares

By Geoff Howie

IN THE five trading sessions through to Nov 19, more than 80 filings relating to directors' interests and substantial shareholdings were filed for more than 40 primary-listed stocks.

Directors or CEOs reported 30 acquisitions and four disposals; substantial shareholders filed six acquisitions and seven disposals.

These included CEO or director acquisitions filed for All-Link Air & Sea, Centurion Corporation, Geo Energy Resources, Hyphens Pharma International, Japan Foods Holding, Leong Guan Holdings, mDR, Mewah International, Mi Material Holding, Nera Telecommunications, Stamford Land Corporation, Ultragreen.ai, UOB and Yoma Strategic Holdings.

CEO or director disposals were filed for AEM Holdings, Annica Holdings, Katrina Group and Singtel.

There was a surge in buybacks in the five sessions, with 35 primary-listed companies repurchasing shares, up from 20 in the week before. Total consideration rose to S$87.5 million from S$16.1 million.

Singtel led the tally with S$40.7 million, followed by ST Engineering with S$13.9 million, UOB with S$7.5 million and Singapore Exchange with S$7.5 million. Food Empire Holdings ranked fifth, repurchasing 1.4 million shares for S$2.33 million, at an average price of S$1.66 a share.

On Nov 12, Food Empire reported its third consecutive quarter of year-on-year revenue growth, bringing revenue for 9M FY2026 (ended Sep 30) to a record US$476.5 million, up 11.7 per cent from the previous record of US$426.7 million the year before.

UOB CEO increases direct interest

On Nov 18, Wee Ee Cheong, deputy chairman and chief executive officer of UOB, acquired 200,000 shares on-market for S$7.228 million, or S$36.140 a share. The purchase increased his direct interest to 0.384 from 0.372 per cent previously; his total interest rose to 10.933 from 10.921 per cent. His deemed interest remained unchanged at 10.549 per cent.

In his Q3 2026 presentation, he said UOB was sharpening its strategic focus on capital-light businesses and would reinvest gains from recent divestments to accelerate growth and unlock value in its Asean franchise. The bank identified retail banking and wholesale banking as its two growth engines, with retail focused on deepening wealth relationships, and wholesale moving beyond lending to become integral to customers' day-to-day operations, capturing cash, trade, foreign exchange and transaction flows.

Stamford Land executive chairman continues share accumulation

On Nov 16 and 17, Ow Chio Kiat, executive chairman of Stamford Land Corporation, acquired an aggregate 1.80 million shares on-market for about S$846,444, at an average price of S$0.470 a share. The purchases raised his direct interest to 43.343 from 43.222 per cent; his total interest went up to 47.057 from 46.949 per cent.

The same filing also recorded a reduction of 200,000 shares in his deemed interest on Nov 16, which fell to 3.714 from 3.727 per cent. His deemed interest remained at 3.714 per cent following the subsequent Nov 17 acquisition.

Ow is also executive chairman of Singapore Shipping Corporation. For H1 FY2027 (ended Sep 30), Stamford Land Corporation reported revenue of S$66.6 million, down 6.7 per cent from S$71.3 million; profit attributable to shareholders went down 27.2 per cent to S$11.5 million from S$15.8 million.

The decrease reflected softer hotel demand, the absence of contributions from five-star boutique hotel Sir Stamford at Circular Quay following its closure in October 2025, and a lower fair-value gain on investment property. Operating profit fell 4 per cent to S$12.1 million. As at Sep 30, the group had S$543 million of cash and bank balances and net assets of S$872.6 million, up from S$862.3 million at the end of FY 2026.

Its London investment property at 8 Finsbury Circus remained fully tenanted, with rent reviews for several tenants ongoing. The group said it would continue to exercise prudence in capital allocation and cost management while maintaining operational performance and enhancing shareholder value.

Mewah directors' deemed interests rise on TC Stone purchase

On Nov 18, TC Stone bought a million Mewah International shares on-market at S$0.300 each, or S$300,000. The deemed interest of Cheo Tong Choon, chairman and executive director, rose to 49.87 from 49.80 per cent.

Michelle Cheo Hui Ning, deputy chairperson, executive director and chief executive officer, saw hers rise to 48.41 from 48.34 per cent. Bianca Cheo Hui Hsin, executive director and deputy CEO, saw hers rise to 48.50 from 48.44 per cent. The interests arise through JTC Trust Company (CI), which owns JJ Mibisa Holding, which in turn owns TC Stone.

Cheo Tong Choon has been leading Mewah for the past four decades, steering its expansion into vegetable-oil refining, manufacturing and trading, and its diversification into bioenergy, rice, dairy, premixes, seasonings and soap. Michelle Cheo leads group strategy, new business development, project execution, risk management, factory operations and ESG initiatives. Bianca Cheo has focused on the consumer pack segment and expansion into new products and international markets.

mDR executive chairman raises deemed interest above 57%

Between Nov 11 and 18, Edward Lee Ewe Ming, executive chairman and non-independent executive director of mDR, acquired a deemed interest of 8.79 million shares through market transactions for S$298,954, at an average price of S$0.034 a share. The purchases increased his deemed interest to 57.11 from 56.72 per cent previously.

Lee has served as executive chairman since June 2017. He was previously a senior consultant at Cambridge Associates, where he led hedge fund research in Asia and oversaw hedge fund portfolios, after earlier corporate finance and investment banking roles at First World Capital and Lehman Brothers.

mDR operates in after-market services for mobile equipment and consumer electronics; distribution and retail of mobile telecommunications equipment and related services; digital inkjet printing for point-of-sale and out-of-home advertising; and investment activities.

For H1 FY2026 (ended Jun 30), mDR reported revenue growth of 18 per cent to S$136.4 million, driven mainly by higher handset distribution volumes and investment income. Distribution Management Solutions revenue increased 20 per cent to S$116.2 million, supported by increased sign-ups for ZYM Mobile SIM plans following the launch of eSIM services in April 2026, while adjusted net profit increased 11 per cent to S$7.3 million.

At its April 2026 AGM, CEO Ong Ghim Choon said the growth of mDR's distribution business had been supported by a shift towards more scalable online channels such as Lazada, Shopee, Amazon and NTUC, and that ZYM Mobile continued to grow at a healthy rate.

Singapore Institute of Advanced Medicine proposes S$53.6 million placement to Heron Neutron Medical Singapore

Singapore Institute of Advanced Medicine Holdings (SIAMH) has entered into a placement agreement with Heron Neutron Medical Singapore for the proposed issue of 1.73 billion new shares at S$0.031 each, for gross proceeds of S$53.63 million. The placement price represents a 34.78 per cent premium to the S$0.023 weighted average price for the full market day on Nov 10.

Heron Neutron Medical Singapore will also receive 500 million unlisted warrants exercisable at S$0.031 a share, potentially raising a further S$15.5 million if fully exercised. On completion, Heron Neutron Medical Singapore will hold 50.09 per cent of SIAMH's enlarged issued share capital, assuming no warrants are exercised, which would result in a transfer of controlling interest. The proposed placement remains subject to conditions including shareholder approval and a whitewash waiver.

Heron Neutron Medical Singapore is wholly owned by Taiwan-listed Heron Neutron Medical Corp (Heron), which the placee describes as a key supplier of accelerator-based boron neutron capture therapy (BNCT) systems in Taiwan. SIAMH said it has not independently verified the information on the place. Heron has stated that its investment is intended to deepen its presence in South-east Asia and combine the two groups' complementary strengths in advanced medical technology and cancer treatment.

SIAMH said combining Heron's BNCT technology with its existing proton therapy, photon radiotherapy, cancer diagnostics and oncology services is expected to support an integrated cancer treatment platform. The parties intend to develop a "dual-particle" treatment centre combining proton therapy and BNCT, which Heron expects to be the first in South-east Asia, and to deepen the integration of medical imaging and nuclear medicine.

SIAMH said that, with Singapore as a regional hub, it will be able to draw on Heron's resources and networks to expand into Southeast Asia and international markets. SIAMH expects net proceeds of S$53.30 million after estimated expenses, with S$35.0 million, or 65.66 per cent, allocated to repayment of indebtedness and S$18.30 million, or 34.34 per cent, for general working capital.

The company said the debt repayment would reduce finance costs and strengthen its balance sheet and capital base. Substantial shareholder Espeetex and executive director and chief executive officer Djeng Shih Kien have extended loans to SIAMH that form part of its indebtedness. Depending on, among other factors, the loan maturity dates, SIAMH's working capital position when the loans fall due and the amount of net proceeds still unutilised, a portion of the amount allocated to debt repayment may be used to repay these loans.

Based on FY26 figures, the proposed placement would increase pro forma net tangible assets from S$52.92 million to S$106.22 million, while NTA per share would increase from S$0.0307 to S$0.0308. Pro forma loss per share would narrow from S$0.0201 to S$0.0105 following the placement, as the weighted average number of shares increases from 1.19 billion to 2.30 billion, while the pro forma net loss rises from S$23.99 million to S$24.22 million.

South Korea rolls out phased measures to stabilise volatile markets

SOUTH Korea announced phased measures to calm markets amid rising volatility, including ensuring a stock stabilisation fund is in place to respond when needed, top financial officials said after an emergency meeting on Sunday (Nov 22).

Finance Minister Lee Hyoung-il, Bank of Korea (BOK) governor Shin Hyun Song and the heads of the Financial Services Commission and the Financial Supervisory Service met on Sunday to discuss possible spillover from the US stock market sell-off and to prepare contingency plans, according to a joint statement.

The government will immediately start preparations for the stock market stabilisation fund to ensure it can be activated when necessary, the government said. Daily share buyback limits will be eased for listed companies for three months to alleviate volatility, according to the statement.

A special intensive three-month monitoring period will be put in place for illegal short-selling activities and authorities will "respond strictly" if it is detected.

The officials said domestic and global stock market volatility has increased significantly because of uncertainties about the artificial intelligence and chip industries, but they added that "there is a need to be cautious over excessive anxiety or panic selling, as long-term growth expectations for the AI industry remain intact".

The meeting came in the wake of a 5.2 per cent decline in the benchmark Kospi index on Friday to its lowest close in 10 months. Korea's stock market is widely seen as a bellwether for the AI trade, from which investors are retreating as scepticism mounts over valuations and rising debt.

Earlier this month, Korean officials met to address steep declines in the benchmark index. At the time, the government said it would temporarily ease margin loan rules to curb forced stock selling.

The Kospi has slipped below the 5,000 level after a blistering rally that pushed it beyond 9,100 in mid-June. Since that peak, the index has plummeted 46.6 per cent.

The decline in the market followed a plunge in US stocks, led by tech shares, and Goldman Sachs Group traders said the sell-off is likely to continue. The bank's panic gauge climbed near its maximum level as Wall Street equities tumbled on Friday, signalling that another substantial wave of selling will follow over the coming week, according to its traders.

The market's latest plunge reflects growing investor reluctance to buy the dip in technology stocks, even as Anthropic's blockbuster initial public offering last week was seen as a potential catalyst for a broader recovery in risk appetite. Instead, the listing has failed to deliver the anticipated market-wide boost.

Meanwhile, BOK will hold its monetary policy meeting on Thursday, where the central bank is expected to raise its benchmark interest rate by another 25 basis points, according to Bloomberg economists. BLOOMBERG
