Singapore shares fall amid mixed regional markets; STI down 0.3%

Losers beat winners 322 to 233 across the broader market, after 2.4b securities worth S$1.4b change hands. BY BENJAMIN CHER

THE Straits Times Index (STI) closed lower on Thursday (Sep 18), as regional indices ended the day mixed. The STI dipped 0.3 per cent or 11.16 points to 4,312.62. Across the broader market, decliners outnumbered advancers 322 to 233, after 2.4 billion shares worth S$1.4 billion changed hands. The trio of local banks closed lower after the Federal Reserve's interest rate cut. DBS was down 0.5 per cent or S$0.24 to S$51.23, UOB dipped 0.1 per cent or S$0.02 to S$34.80 and OCBC fell 0.6 per cent or S$0.10 to S$16.56. Venture was the top gainer on the STI; the counter rose 1.7 per cent or S$0.24 to S$14.03. The biggest loser was Hongkong Land, losing 1.6 per cent or US$0.11 to end the day at US$6.65. Across the region, major indices were mixed on Thursday. The Kospi was up 1.4 per cent, and the Nikkei 225 rose 1.2 per cent. Meanwhile, Hong Kong's Hang Seng Index fell 1.4 per cent and the KLCI shed

0.8 per cent. Wall Street failed to react to the Fed's rate cuts with exuberance, as it was in line with market expectations, said Vasu Menon, managing director, investment strategy, OCBC. There is some uncertainty in the Fed's rate trajectory for 2025, as the dot plot showed a wide level of disparity. These are coupled with the uncertainty of the next Fed chairman, who could potentially compromise the independence of the US central bank by tilting the balance of power in favour of US President Donald Trump. "Nevertheless, for investors who are prepared to take a medium-term view, there is still a case to stay invested, given that Fed rate cuts in the absence of a recession and an abundance of liquidity has proven to be positive for equity markets," said Menon. benjamincher@sph.com.sg

DBS was down 0.5% at S$51.23, UOB dipped 0.1% to S$34.80 and OCBC fell 0.6% to S$16.56.

US dollar choppy after Fed cut; pound holds firm

THE greenback was choppy on Thursday (Sep 18) as traders parsed the Federal Reserve's measured stance on further interest rate cuts, while sterling held steady as the Bank of England (BOE) kept rates steady and slowed the pace of its government bond sales.

The pound initially edged up after the BOE's decision, but pared those gains to trade slightly lower on the day at US$1.3622.

The euro edged up 0.1 per cent to 86.79 pence. Gilt yields dipped, leaving the 10-year bond at 4.612 per cent, compared with 4.639 per cent earlier on.

Sterling had briefly leapt to the highest since Jul 2 at US$1.3726 in the prior session.

BOE policymakers voted 7-2 to slow the annual pace at which the central bank unloads the gilts that it purchased from 2009 and 2021 to £70 billion ($$122 billion) from £100 billion, broadly in line with a Reuters poll median forecast for it to be cut to £67.5 billion.

"As expected, the BOE has not cut rates, and it is unlikely it will ease monetary policy again this year," said Marion Amiot, chief UK economist at S&P Global Ratings.

The euro was steady at US$1.1830, after retreating from its highest level since June 2021 at US$1.19185 on Wednesday in a knee-jerk reaction to the Fed announcement.

The Fed reduced rates by a quarter point on Wednesday, as expected, with chair Jerome Powell characterising the day's policy action as a risk-management cut in response to the weakening labour market, but said the central bank did not need to rush easing.

Analysts differed over the signals sent by the Fed. While those at Goldman Sachs said that many hints had pointed to Wednesday's cut being the first among many, their counterparts at ANZ characterised the Fed chair's commentary as "not at all dovish".

The dollar dropped to the lowest since February 2022 at 96.224 against a basket of major peers immediately after the rate decision, but sprang back vigorously to rise as much as 0.44 per cent on the day. It was last steady at 96.96.

The euro pared gains against the crown after the policy decision was announced and was last down 0.25 per cent at 11.5710.

"The (Fed's) revised forecasts highlighted the degree of uncertainty that remains over the outlook," said Elliot Clarke, head of international economics at Westpac. "The timing and scale of the forecast rate cuts also point to lingering risks for inflation."

The Norwegian crown was also steady in the face of an expected rate cut from the Norges Bank, its second in three months. The central bank signalled rates could continue to fall.

Elsewhere, the dollar was 0.2 per cent firmer against the Japanese yen at 147.215 ahead of the Bank of Japan's (BOJ) policy decision on Friday.

The BOJ is widely expected to refrain from hiking rates, although markets have priced in a quarter-point increase by end-March, with about 50 per cent odds of it happening within this year.

The spotlight is on an Oct 4 vote where the ruling Liberal Democratic Party will elect a new leader to replace outgoing Prime Minister Shigeru Ishiba, who is stepping down after a short stint following a bruising defeat in upper house elections. REUTERS
